Damien Center to offer free and confidential HIV testing on National HIV Testing Day, June 27

People encouraged to get tested so they know their status and can get linked to care and treatment right away

What: National HIV Testing Day (NHTD) is June 27. This annual event encourages people to get tested for HIV, know their status, and get linked to care and treatment right away. Damien Center will be offering FREE and confidential HIV testing on-site throughout the day. HIV testing is done through a quick finger prick blood sample, so getting tested is easy and test results are available within 20 minutes. Damien Center also offers free and confidential HIV and STI testing every weekday and on three Saturdays throughout the month. For more information check out the testing section of Damien Center website or call the testing desk at 317.632.0123.

This year's theme is about the power of "Knowing" – knowing your HIV status, knowing your risk, knowing your prevention options, and knowing your treatment options. This theme highlights the many ways to stay in-the-know about HIV testing and expands beyond testing to include broader awareness of the many options related to HIV prevention, testing, and treatment. This year also focuses on self-testing as an option when facility-based services and in-person patient-clinician contact is limited.

Why: People who test positive for HIV can lead long, healthy lives through medication and other methods. The only way to know if someone has HIV is to get tested. Knowing your status gives peace of mind and the power to take your health into your own hands.

CDC recommends that everyone between the ages of 13 and 64 get tested for HIV at least once as part of routine health care and those at high risk get tested at least once a year. Some sexually active gay and bisexual men may benefit from more frequent testing (every 3 to 6 months).
